Eudo Dapifer

Norman, son of Hubert de Ryes, Calvados, arr. Bayeux (Loyd, 40). Dapifer to William I and II and Henry I, he held land of the honour of Préaux in Normandy. In 1086 he held a major tenancy-in-chief in ten counties. Some of his land had earlier been held by the Breton Lisoius de Moutiers, who forfeited his holdings in 1075. In 1086 one of his tenants was Osbert, husband of his sister Muriel. Soon afterwards he acquired the land previously held by his brother Adam, a tenant of Odo of Bayeux. He also took over the tenancy of other fiefs, those of Roger and William de Auberville in Hertfordshire, and of Sasselín in Essex. In 1096–7 he refounded the abbey of St John the Baptist at Colchester. He married Rohais, daughter of Richard de Clare, by whom he had issue a daughter Margaret, wife first of William I de Mandeville and secondly of Otuer fitz Count. He died early in 1120 at his castle of Préaux and was buried at Colchester abbey on 28 February. His honour was then taken over by Henry I and its partial dismemberment quickly followed. See Farrer, HKF iii, 164–8.
